During Devon's time with us she demonstrated the utmost professionalism and a strong ability to connect with customers. She approached her assigned market with a level of rigor and attention to detail that allowed her to quickly work with her team to develop a go-to-market plan. Her managers and teammates appreciated her organizational skills as well as her task-oriented and process-driven approach to her daily work. Devon has a keen ability to understand customer challenges and pain points, helping her establish relationships in the complex field of higher education.
